County school budget: No tax raise, possible tax reduction

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock County School Board reported Monday no increase in county school taxes for the coming year.

The board also projected the possibility of a reduction in county school tax millage due increased revenues generated by the construction of 100 new homes in Diamondhead and the addition of GE Plastics and Calgon industries onto county tax rolls.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois told board members, the district would not request ad valorem shortfall funds of $71,697 for the 1991-92 fiscal year.

She stressed the need for the district to join with others in the state to support legislation which would change school district fiscal year to coincide with the county's and city's.

"Hancock County school district has had a shortfall in ad valorem taxes since 1988, due to fiscal year differences between the school district, July 1 thru June 30, and the tax levying year, October 1 thru September 30," Bourgeois explained. "In order to eliminate additional debt service millage, we will not request the shortfall monies."

The present increase in sales taxes is expected to generate $243,000 in revenue for the district.

Bourgeois added, sales tax revenues are allocated for the purchase of two new school buses, $64,686; building repairs, $19,138; textbooks and other educational materials, $44,188; transportation opera-

Brignac: computer snafu caused back tax problem

BY TRACI BONNEY

When Evelyn Bradford, currently residing at Notre Dame de la Mer Apartments, made a routine call to the county tax office recently, she received a rude surprise.

She had called to verify the tax status on a piece of property she owns in Bayside Park, and was told she owed back taxes.

Bradford said this came as news to her, since she had paid her taxes regularly to Gulf Pines Inc., the New Orleans firm that is developing the subdivision, with the understanding that Gulf Pines would forward those taxes to the tax office.

"They said I owed taxes as far back as about 1990," she said.

A clerk at the tax office confirmed that she and Bradford had talked, and that Bradford's file does show back taxes owed.

Edmond M. Brignac Jr., president of Gulf Pines, offered this explanation for the situation: "We had a few customers that we slipped up on their tax payments. If those customers will call and let us know about their situation, we will take care of the property redemption and send them a copy of the redemption."

"We've had some computer problems and also the lady who handled this for us died suddenly in February. We're working to straighten it all up now."

Those who have found back taxes on their property, but who have paid their taxes to Gulf Pines, may call Brignac at 1-504-486-7373.

Mandatory refrigerant recycling takes effect this July

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

In an attempt to better protect the ozone layer of the earth, the United States is prohibiting the free flow of refrigerants into the atmosphere.

As of July 1, 1992, mandatory recycling of refrigerants will be enforced through restrictive sales.

It is estimated by those in the refrigeration business that costs for repairs to any appliance or system using refrigerants, such as Du Pont's Freon, is expected to double.

According to the HVACR Industry certification training manual, it is the chlorine contained in refrigerants which has and is depleting the earth's ozone layer.

The most frequently used refrigerant, chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs), consist of chlorine, fluorine and carbon. These chemicals in combination remain extremely stable, rising high into the ozone layer of the atmosphere.

CFCs are used in household appliances such as refrigerators.

The next category of refrigerants is hydrochlorofluorocarbons (HCFCs). Hydrogen is added to CFCs and a less stable compound is produced, which largely decomposes in the lower atmosphere upon release.

HCFCs are considered to have a very low ozone depletion level. Air conditioning units are primary users of HCFCs.

In existence, but not yet on the market, are hydrofluorocar-

New program provides food, community work opportunity

BY TRACI BONNEY

If you're interested in contributing to the community, a program being organized in the area can help you do that and get a break on your grocery bill in the bargain.

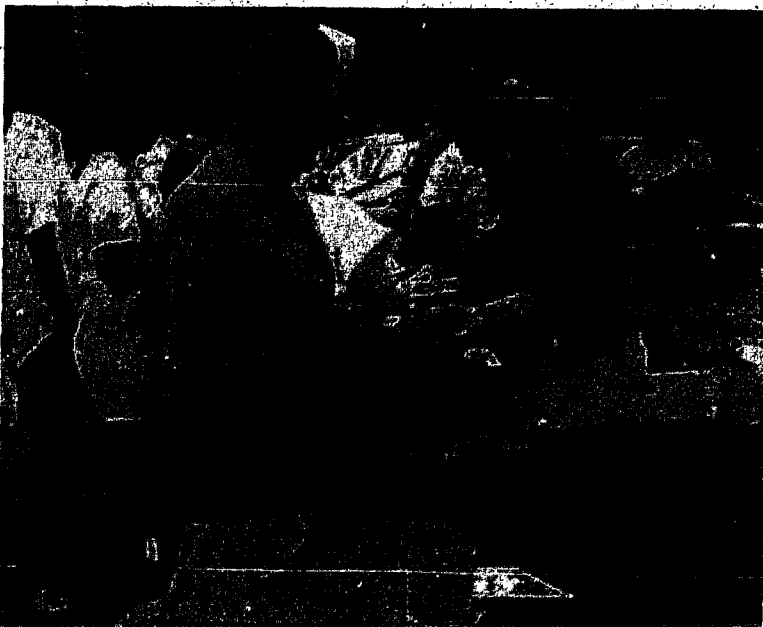

FoodSHARE/Alabama has several host groups on the Coast, with a new one being started here in Hancock County. The Rev. Charles C. Clark, visitation pastor of Faith Assembly of God in Kiln, is working with Joy Fellowship and First Assembly of God in Waveland on the program, now in its third month on this end of the Coast.

The county Senior Citizens program, RSVP and the Health Department are also interested in getting involved, Clark said. The "SHARE" part of FoodSHARE stands for "Self Help And Resource Exchange." Those who sign up for the program pay $13 for each grocery packet they want and also volunteer two hours of community service per packet. The $13 can be paid by cash, money order or food stamps; the community service must be completed prior to delivery day (a.k.a. "D-Day"). Community service is "any-

Twilight Run and blessing of the fleet among 'crustacean celebration' highlights

BY TRACI BONNEY

The grounds next to Our Lady of the Gulf will be crawling with crabs in a couple of weeks, as Crab Festival 1992 kicks off the July 4 weekend.

Crabs — of both the live and boiled varieties — will be in abundance, as will food and activities of all types at the eighth annual event. The food offerings include boiled and fried seafood, crab specialties, cajun cooking, barbecue, Oriental food, New Orleans cuisine, those favorite American picnic foods — hamburgers and hot dogs, cotton candy, desserts, cakes, ice cream, snowballs, popcorn and drinks.

Lest you think the crabs will be confined to the food area, check out the activities. A traditional feature of the fest is the crab races.

Other activities include blessing of the fleet, Kiddie Land, throwing games, a white elephant booth, face painting,

New information hotline urges voters to 'get smart'

BY TRACI BONNEY

Want to know the latest on Bill Clinton, George Bush or Ross Perot? Curious about Trent Lott or Gene Taylor's voting record?

Call Project Vote Smart. Project Vote Smart, a self-proclaimed "voter's self-defense system," offers information about presidential, Congressional and gubernatorial candidates, among others. Information officer Renee Harbor said the Oregon-based project started with the incumbents, then began adding the challengers in state general elections, presidential and gubernatorial races.

The nonprofit, nonpartisan project is making its services available on a state-by-state basis, updating existing profiles as needed and adding information to its data base for each state.

The information available includes biographies, voting records, campaign finances and "performance evaluations" by more than 60 special interest groups.

"We keep evaluations from conflicting groups on file," Harbor said. "For instance, if we have a pro-choice group's evaluation on file for a candidate, we also have a pro-life or anti-abortion group's evaluation."

"The evaluations are based on the candidates' voting records on various issues. Each evaluation is different, because each group's priorities, the issues that matter to them, are different."

"We don't take a stance on any candidate; we don't encour-

MILITARY MENTION

PRC NIXON
Marine Pfc. Shane P. Nixon, a 1990 graduate of Bay Senior High School, is currently in the Mediterranean with the 24th Marine Expeditionary Unit based at Camp Lejeune, N.C., and is in the middle of a six-month deployment.

Nixon has been participating in various operations and training exercises designed to challenge the mission readiness of the unit. He recently completed two weeks of intense training at Camp De Canjuers, France, and a liberty port visit to Haifa, Israel.

Most recently, he arrived in Rota, Spain. He will visit other ports in the Mediterranean as the deployment continues.

Armed with the correct information, but still obviously confused and troubled, the man thanked me and headed for the dismissal. There was a sheepish, comic relief on his face.

The pangs of frustration and the pain of a lived-out act of patience bit into me as I reflected: "Just when I think I am off to a rip-roaring start in the morning, something like this has to come along."

But deeper reflection wrestled my mind back: "However, my greatest sermon of the day, of the weekend and maybe of the whole year has just been preached. No matter what I say in public, no matter what degree of eloquence I achieve, the only life-changing eloquence has already been expressed."

Not only that. As much as my tedious ordeal told the man that he was worth every bit of the trouble, so much did I myself benefit in terms of inspiration for the entire day.

Further, I came into a deeper understanding of the unique power of actions; of how we preach most strongly, most effectively by what we do rather than by what we say.

Taking time with others can be the greatest pain in the neck—and the greatest apostolate. There is no sermon or discourse worth the merest fraction of what it means to a fellow human to observe someone taking time with her/him.

Instead of continued annoyance at having been needlessly interrupted, there was a new spring in my step and, more significantly, a new nimbleness in my brain.

All of us need to bear in mind that it is the relatively minor things in life which irritate and sour us. By the same token, by patience in these we bear our best witness to God.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Taking time can be painful

"Maybe you can help me," the man said somewhat confusedly as I opened the door. "Is there a dismissal in the church here this morning?"

"No," I answered, rather puzzled. "Not here."

With lost, groping eyes, he went on: "I stopped at the church on Esplanade, but they told me to come here to St. Augustine Church on St. Claude."

His eyes rolled some more in obvious confusion: "I don't know the name of the man who is being dismissed. I only know his nickname. But I don't remember that right now."

"Do you know the funeral home which is taking care of his body?" I asked with a heavy feeling of disbelief, struggling to conceal my annoyance at his negligence.

"No," he said. "I don't know which funeral home it is."

Inadvertently, I drew in a deep breath of frustration. My annoyance was trying to make a quantum leap. Not only was he forgetful and totally out of context, but it was Saturday morning and I was trying to pull my thoughts and everything else together for the vigil Mass.

"I guess there's nothing else to do but check the obituary column," I muttered wilyly.

"Jack the Ripper! That's it! That's his nickname!" he shouted triumphantly while I stood there plowing through the obituary columns. "That's all I remember," he lapsed.

After perusing the day's obituaries, I picked up the previous day's and eventually found a name which answered the description given me by the confused man. Victory! To my great relief, it turned out to be the right obituary.

Armed with the correct information, but still obviously confused and troubled, the man thanked me and headed for the dismissal. There was a sheepish, comic relief on his face.

The pangs of frustration and the pain of a lived-out act of patience bit into me as I reflected: "Just when I think I am off to a rip-roaring start in the morning, something like this has to come along."

Auditions set for 'Onepiece'

St. Louis playwright-composer Randall Bibb has chosen the Mississippi Gulf Coast for the premiere of his one-act musical comedy, Onepiece.

THEATER

Auditions for the five adult roles have been set for Saturday, June 20 at 2 p.m. at the Bay House, 441 St. John St., Bay St. Louis. Persons auditioning should bring their own music and have a song prepared.

Onepiece is a spoof of the Esther Williams movies of the 1940s in which a Hollywood swimming star arrives in Small Town USA to find her career threatened by an innocent young lifeguard.

The show is tentatively scheduled for a preview run at Rainbow Theater Coffee House, 400 Blaize Ave., Bay St. Louis July 17-18. Proceeds will benefit the coffee house and the PWA/HIV project of Mississippi.

The show will begin its premiere run at the Hancock County Community Center, Longfellow Road, Bay St. Louis in late August.

For information call Bibb at 467-4282.

St. Rose plans men's softball tournament

Registration for the St. Rose Fair annual men's softball tournament has begun.

Men interested in participating should contact Lonnie Bradley, 467-6770 or call St. Rose Church, 467-7347 and give advanced notice of intent by June 19.

Registration fee per team will be $85.

The tournament will be July 3-5.

Medicare hotline to answer questions

Medicare beneficiaries who have questions about their rights under the Medicare program should contact the Mississippi Foundation for Medical Care (MFMC) in Jackson.

MFMC as the state's federally designated peer review organization reviews Medicare hospital admissions for necessity and appropriateness of care in order to assure high quality medical care.

MFMC ensure that Medicare beneficiaries are kept fully informed about decisions affecting their Medicare coverage. If beneficiaries are hospitalized and think they are being asked to leave the hospital too soon, they should ask for a written notice of explanation immediately. Appeals may be made to MFMC.

MFMC offers a speakers service statewide for interested clubs or organizations needing a special program on patient's rights under Medicare.

Beneficiaries with questions can call the MFMC toll-free telephone number at 1-800-844-0600 or 354-0304 in Jackson.

NASA conducts soil and water monitoring

Since June 9 and continuing into July, environmental scientists and technicians from EBASCO Inc. under contract with NASA will be at John C. Stennis Space Center to conduct soil and water monitoring activities.

These field investigations are designed to determine if any contamination of soil or water exists at locations throughout Stennis and are part of ongoing efforts by NASA to ensure the health and safety of the work force.

The investigation will include the drilling and sampling of monitoring wells, collection of surface and subsurface soil samples, and the collection of surface water and stream sediment samples.

The field investigation is part of NASA's continuous effort to comply with the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act, as amended by the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act. These laws mandate the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency establish a list of federal facilities where hazardous waste has been generated, stored, treated or disposed of in the past, and that these facilities determine if contamination exists in unsafe levels.

The results of the laboratory analysis of the collected samples will be used to compute a Hazardous Ranking Score for each site, which is then used to determine which sites qualify for subsequent remedial action.

Mississippi awarded $13,863 grant from HUD

The state of Mississippi has been awarded a $13,863 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to Mississippi's U.S. Senators Trent Lott and Thad Cochran. The grant is part of HUD's Home Program.

According to HUD, the project is designed for the benefit of lower-income persons. The grant will be used for home program activities through direct distribution and competitive allocation; housing rehabilitation; community housing development organizations (CHDO) set-aside; new housing construction through neighborhood revitalization and special needs; and rental production set-aside.

A packet consists of frozen meats, fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables and bonus items such as pinto beans, rice and seasonings. The menu for May included chicken drums, fish sticks, No. 1 bacon, hot dogs, No. 1 pork sausage, frozen coffee cake, frozen fries, bananas, oranges, cabbage, carrots, cucumbers, onions, potatoes, peppers, pinto beans, cantaloupe and honeydew.

Clark said the program has mushroomed since its start. "The first month I had 63 orders, then 101, and now I have 200 orders," he commented.

"I'm pleased about it, about so many people getting good nutrition and good food."

FoodSHARE is able to offer its service because of bulk purchasing. When the organization buys large quantities of food, the prices are lower.

When Clark receives the boxes of food from the Mobile office, the "assembly line" goes to work. "People come by with their boxes and get their groceries," he said. "It's a very smooth operation."

Clark is taking orders through the end of the day today. His home phone number is 255-3066, and his address is 8106 Firetower Road. He encourages anyone who is interested in the program to give him a call or stop by his house.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Have you noticed how nice the grounds of the Hancock County Courthouse are becoming?

All of this is through the efforts of County Inventory Control Officer Harold Heine, who has taken over the courthouse area grounds and is using trustees to do the work.

It has been a very long time since I have seen the lawn of the courthouse looking so good. When it is dry, the grounds are watered. The lawn has been edged, flower beds cleaned and areas around the shrubs mulched.

Some very hardy flowers have been planted and are being cared for regularly.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson supplies the manpower from the Criminal Justice Facility and Heine directs them.

I once had a resident compare a lawn to a woman. He said a lawn that is not edged is like a woman without makeup. Think about it, it is a good comparison.

I am very glad to see the improvements being made on the county grounds and want to commend Heine and also the trustees who are doing the work and let them know it is appreciated.

A five-state Telephone Pioneers Family Campers group will be arriving beginning this weekend at Buccaneer State Park for a convention June 16, 17 and 18.

They are part of the group that visited Buccaneer two years ago and were much impressed with the entire area.

They received such a fabulous welcome to the community and were impressed with the park and its staff.

Many of the local merchants will be seeing the visitors, as they plan on eating and shopping locally during their stay, according to Jay Lagasse, who is the local coordinator of community activities for the Telephone Pioneers.

Buccaneer is very popular with campers and is becoming internationally known. It can accommodate 500 camping units at one time.

A parade is scheduled in the park on Tuesday, June 16, by the Waveland Civic Association.

A group of local merchants with Ray Kidd, coordinator, will have a red beans and rice dinner for the special visitors after the parade.

There will be as many planned activities for this group as two years ago, as they indicated they wanted some time to visit the local community.

Some 80 to 90 camping units should compose the five-state group, Lagasse indicated, so this should be a couple hundred extra visitors to Hancock County.

The Hancock County Chamber of Chamber, Retired Senior Volunteers Program members, park manager Greg Smith, along with city and county officials have been working for some time to make this another good stay for the Telephone Family Pioneer Campers in our county.

Merchants, in case you see some the campers in your place of business, you may want to give them a good welcome, as who knows, we may get the large group back again one day.

A public service message from the Mississippi Secretary of State's Office and this newspaper

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Mike Moore brings down another public official

Atty. Gen. Mike Moore has brought down yet another miscreant public official and for the first time in state political history successfully attacked the heretofore sacrosanct domain of illegal campaign contributions.

When Southern District Public Service commissioner Sidney Barnett resigned last week, only five months after taking office, it was as a result of charges brought by Moore in January that Barnett took some $24,000 in illegal contributions during his election campaign last year.

Barnett, a lawyer, was charged under a specific law forbidding PSC candidates or commissioners from taking contributions from utility companies the state Public Service Commission regulates.

His resignation was the key requirement of a plea bargain Moore made with Barnett. Pleading guilty to the specific charge of accepting a $6,000 contribution from a North Gulfport (Orange Grove) water company, Barnett was given a two-year probationary sentence.

But another essential part of the bargain is that Barnett will provide full cooperation as state's witness in a federal grand jury investigation into other private utility companies suspected of having made illegal PSC contributions.

Once again, the state of Mississippi is forced to rely on the investigative power of a federal grand jury because the recently-ended 1992 Mississippi Legislature refused to enact legislation pushed by Moore to allow creation of a statewide grand jury.

Now it is necessary for the state's attorney general to seek indictments for state law violations uncovered by his office in each individual county where they occur. This requires the cooperation of the local district attorney, who may balk on grounds the state AG is "meddling" in local affairs.

While the Barnett case comes directly under existing law on illegal campaign contributions by regulated utilities to PSC candidates, it is believed to pre-empt a broad offensive by the public corruption-fighting Moore against campaign law violations elsewhere in state government.

That, of course, is something unheard of in Mississippi and no doubt will spread fear among state politicians who in the past have played fast and loose with campaign funding.

Where the biggest problem seems to lie now is in the weak campaign financing laws that the Legislature puts on the books.

Incredibly, the Legislature two years ago totally reversed a 40-year-old state ban on candidates for the State Highway Commission receiving campaign contributions from road contractors. With two legislators on the Highway Commission lobbying for repeal of the ban, the Legislature blithely okayed it.

Moore, charging that repeal of the road contractor campaign contribution prohibition was "absolutely wrong," said he hoped that the Barnett case will serve as a pry-pole to get the Legislature to restore the former ban on such contributions to Highway Commission candidates.

Coming on the heels of two Public Service commissioners being sent to federal prison for masking bribes from regulated companies as campaign contributions, the Barnett episode only reinforces the Alice in Wonderland quality of Mississippi politics.

The Legislature in 1990 purportedly tightened the law barring utility contributions to PSC candidates or commissioners. At the same time they provided an election must be held to fill out the remaining term of any commissioner who resigns rather than allowing the governor to appoint the replacement for the rest of the term.

In 1991 the lawmakers amended the law on contributions purportedly to only insert the word "knowingly" as a caveat for accepting an illegal contribution. Now it turns out the Legislature somehow didn't bring forward in the new law the 1990 language on how vacancies are filled and a donnybrook is about to explode between Gov. Fordice and the Legislature.

The governor's office is saying they now can name a successor to Barnett for the remaining three and a half years of his term. Reportedly, they have in mind appointing Rep. Curt Hebert (R) of Pascagoula.

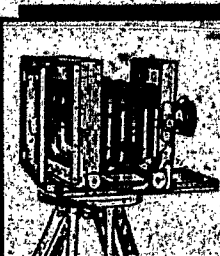

But the Legislature is saying the omission in the 1991 law was unintentional, and the election requirement still stands. Moore is apparently going to have to be the referee.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Mississippi learning

The Secretary of State's Office has released, for the second year in a row, statistics from the State Department of Education that once again reinforce the need for educational improvement in Mississippi.

The report focuses on the non-vocational courses offered by the 247 public high schools across the state. According to the report:

—117 schools do not have advanced English courses;

—78 schools have no computer courses;

—68 schools have only one foreign language;

—23 schools have no foreign languages at all.

On an optimistic note, the report reveals a slight increase in the state average of total academic units or course offerings per school. However, while 115 schools around Mississippi increased courses in 1991, students at 154 schools had less choice than the state average of 35.

The results remind us that, if our students are to be truly competitive, they need instruction in courses which increasingly reflect the demands of a growing global marketplace.

The questions remain: How can Mississippi's schools at least increase the opportunities for students?

Do we have too many small, underfunded schools and school districts that should be combined for greater strength?

The consequences of not finding an answer will affect the state for years to come.

bon (HFC) refrigerants. HFCs have a zero ozone depletion potential and contain no chlorine.

HFCs will be the replacement refrigerant of the future. In 1987, 24 nations and the European Economic Community (EEC) met in Montreal, Canada and joined in an agreement to reduce the use of ozone depleting chemicals throughout a period of decades.

The Montreal Protocol called for a freeze in 1986 consumption levels in CFCs and Halons. Halons are primarily used in fire fighting, such as in fire extinguishers.

Halons are considered more potent ozone depleting chemicals than CFCs.

Consumption during 1986 must be reduced by 20 percent by 1993; 50 percent by 1995; 85 percent by 1997 and 100 percent by 2000.

A declaration of intent to phase out HFCs by 2040 was also signed.

The first step in this long-reaching plan begins July 1.

In compliance with the 1990 Clean Air Act Amendments, certification of personnel will be required to purchase a refrigerator or any refrigeration part.

To obtain such certification one must complete a course in proper containment, recovery, reuse and disposal of refrigerants.

A recovery machine must be used when repairs are being made to refrigerant lines. These machines cost $1,200 to $6,700.

No longer can a refrigeration repairman allow refrigerant gases to escape into the atmosphere while he searches for a leak; nor can he allow minor leaks to go unattended.

By law if someone knowingly does so, he is in violation of the Clean Air Act and can be fined up to $25,000 per day by EPA. In addition criminal penalties and prison terms may be sought, not to exceed five years.

By law, effective November 1995, if someone even unknowingly releases refrigerants into the air, he is violating the above prohibition.

Terry Bass of Southern Pipe in Bay St. Louis explained recovery machines can either contain or clean and recycle the refrigerant.

"Not all refrigerants need to be recycled," he stated. "Refrigerants are only contaminated if there is a burn out. Otherwise they can be reused and new refrigerant added to replace any lost."

For now, the burden of keeping the air cleaner is on the men and women in refrigeration services. The costs will be passed on to the consumer.

age callers to vote for one person over another. We simply try to present as much information as possible and answer callers questions."

Project Vote Smart started in 1988 with the help of political activists and mainstream politicians, including former presidents Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter and former senators Barry Goldwater and George McGovern. Funding is from grants and individuals; no money comes from corporations or political action committees.

The number is toll-free: 1-800-786-6885. Callers talk to a live operator; it isn't a recorded "Push '1' for George Bush; push '2' for Bill Clinton; push '3' for Ross Perot" setup.

Harbor said, "Some of the people who call have very specific questions, and our operators try to answer those questions. Others want just general information, and the operators will work with them, too, sort of walk them through what types of information we have available."

In addition, the project has a 900 number — 1-900-786-6885 — that a caller can contact if he would like a copy of the group's Voter's Self-Defense Manual and other information about Project Vote Smart. Harbor said there is a $3 charge, but it covers printing and mailing costs for the information and is not to make a profit for the organization.

She explained that the organization's philosophy is straightforward. "We look at a candidate who is running for office as an applicant for employment, and it's up to the voters to hire the best person for the job."

"So, what we're doing here is trying to provide the type of information an employer would want from a potential employee."

When It Comes To Auto Financing,

* Hancock Is Still Your #1 Bank.

During the first five months of 1992, more people in south Mississippi financed their cars and trucks through Hancock Bank than any other local or out-of-state Bank. More than the Credit Unions. More than the Savings & Loans. Even more than two of the big three auto manufacturer's credit corporations.

Surprised? You shouldn't be. Hancock Bank has consistently financed more automobiles than any other bank in south Mississippi since the 1930s.

Today you can finance your car through Hancock Bank at more than 30 car dealerships throughout south Mississippi; or at one of more than 30 Hancock Bank branches.

So, if you're thinking of buying a new car or truck, now is the time. The rebates and interest rates have never been better. Just remember Hancock is your #1 Bank when it comes to auto financing.

Summer program feeds thousand first day

BY TRACI BONNEY

A summer feeding program in the county's two school districts shows signs of being successful again this year, judging from first day turnout.

A total of about 1,183 children were given breakfasts and lunches Monday, according to figures from the districts' food services directors.

Judy Fletcher, Bay St. Louis-Waveland district director, said an average of 90 people per school attended breakfast and an average of 260 per school attended lunch. The city district is serving breakfasts from 8 to 9 a.m. and lunches from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Bay Middle School and Waveland Elementary.

Hancock County district director Rhea Scafide said an average of 161 people per school attended lunch on the program's kickoff day. The county district is serving lunches from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Charles B. Murphy, Gulfview and Hancock North Central elementary schools.

Scafide said, "We would like to have 200 a day at each location. The continuation of the program from year to year is based on the numbers who participate."

The summer feeding program offers meals free of charge to children 18 and younger. Administered by the United States Department of Agriculture, the program cannot discriminate against any child on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, handicap or economic status.

While the Bay St. Louis-Waveland district is serving both breakfast and lunch each weekday, the county district is serving lunches only. Scafide said this is because the district is a rural one.

She said response to the program so far is good.

"I was out at one of the schools yesterday, and the people participating in the program are very enthusiastic about it. We're pleased to help stimulate the economy by running this program."

Scafide explained that the program boosts the local and state economies by employing people to cook and serve the food, training young people in job skills through the Summer Youth Employment Training Program, and generating dollars through food purchases throughout the state.

While the program does benefit the economy, its main purpose is to provide nutritional meals for the county's children.

Fletcher said, "We plan the menus just as we do during the regular school year. We make sure we're providing a well-balanced meal."

"Our program probably meets the children's nutritional needs better than meals at their homes would, where they'd most likely get something like a sandwich and some chips."

The program is in its fourth year in the county district and its sixth year in the municipal district.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

There's more—a wholly delicious far more—to the cuisine of our country's great Southwest region than beans and barbecue 'round the campfire, or palate-searing chili pepper concoctions and so on.

Southwestern cookery is truly three great cuisines blended and assimilated into a tasty whole, with endless variations. As America moved westward, expanding the horizons, cooks borrowed from the earthy flavors of the cookery of Old Mexico, with its beans, corn, tortillas and dried chilies.

Foods of the traditional American South also found their way into Southwestern pots and pans; rice and okra, file gumbo, sweet potatoes and such added their accents to the table. From Asian cookery came ginger and soy sauce, curries and Thai chilies and other additions.

From these three different cultures and ways of cooking evolved the regional cooking known as Southwest cuisine. I've been redefining—and filling my pots and pans with Southwestern cuisine in my own kitchen these days, thanks to intriguing cookbooks featuring that adventuresome and colorful way of cooking.

First on the list is the tome which leading food guru and gourmet Craig Claiborne has labeled "perhaps the best book on Southwest cuisine ever written"—Brian Fearing's Southwest Cuisine, Blending Asia and the Americas, New Recipes from The Mansion on Turtle Creek. (Hard cover $29.95, Grove Weidenfelds, New York, Division of Grove Press).

Fearing, executive chef of the Mansion on Turtle Creek's award-winning restaurant in Dallas, Texas, and named one of America's top chefs by Food and Wine magazine, enjoys an international reputation for his creative cuisine, especially his "hybrid" sauces (so named because they meld tastes from the three regions so skillfully).

These sauces, key to Fearing's cuisine, highlight fat-free stocks, infused with herbs and spices, natural and fresh, minimizing butter and cream in the interests of healthful dining. Although in no way a "health food cookbook" Fearing's "Southwest Cuisine" recognizes the importance of a health-awareness approach to cooking, while at the same time offering luscious, tasty food.

Lavishly illustrated in full color, this is no "coffee table" book (although handsome enough for a place on that table). It is a book to keep and read and use and enjoy for fine dining. And the recipes—there's Lobster Succotash, East Texas Onion Pudding, Southern Fried Spoon Bread (a light version of our Hush Puppies), Snapper With Orange in Horseradish Crust—and even that Mississippi favorite, "Mississippi Mud Pie."

For a variation of that Southern classic, spoon bread, with the robust taste of the Southwest, try:

JALAPENO JACK CHEESE SPOON BREAD

2 jalapeno chilies, seeded and finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, peeled and finely chopped
2 shallots, peeled and finely chopped
2 cups milk
1 cup cornmeal
1 cup grated jalapeno jack cheese

1 cup unsalted butter, softened
1 Tbsp. maple syrup
Salt to taste
4 large eggs, separated

1 Tbsp. tequila
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine jalapenos, garlic, shallots and milk in a medium saucepan over medium-high heat. Bring just to a boil and immediately stir in cornmeal, beating thoroughly. Lower heat and cook for 5 minutes or until thick. Remove from heat and beat in cheese, butter, syrup and salt until well combined. Set aside to cool.

Beat egg yolks in a small bowl and stir into cooled cornmeal. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into cornmeal. Add tequila, stirring to just mix. Pour into buttered 2-quart casserole, cover and bake in pre-heated oven for about 30 minutes or until the tip of a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Serve hot.

Another new Southwestern cookery book is "Santa Fe Lite and Spicy Recipes" by Jean Stromquist. (Paperback, $15.95, Tierra Publications, Santa Fe). More than 350 recipes from 40 of Santa Fe's best restaurants star in this cookbook. Dishes are low-fat, low-calorie for the most part, with a few fairly rich ones as well, and with strong and spicy flavors.

Tips and comments from the various chefs concerning their dishes and philosophies of cooking add interest. Of special interest to me were the sauces, dips and condiments; for I have found that variations in these can give the cook infinite changes on the same-old-chicken or fish themes without much effort, but with excellent results. For examples, using melon or citrus, avocado or tomato salsa gives you a variety in your basic dishes. There'll be cooking smudges all over this section, in my copy, I'm sure! WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Edgecombe- Anderson

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the May 16 wedding of Stacey Lynn Anderson and John Clayton Edgecombe. Father Cuthbert O'Connell officiated the afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of William and Janet Power of Waveland and George W. Anderson of Orange Beach, Ala. The groom is the son of Harold and Marilyn Edgecombe of Pass Christian.

Nuptial music was provided by soloist Ann Wilkerson and singer/pianist Alfriza Acker.

Given in marriage by her father, George W. Anderson, the bride wore a white satin gown with a sweetheart neckline. The full puff sleeves, which tapered to the wrist, and the fitted bodice were appliqued with embroidered French lace scrolled with beaded pearls and iridescent sequins. The bodice flowed into a full skirt that swept into a cathedral train accented with beaded lace.

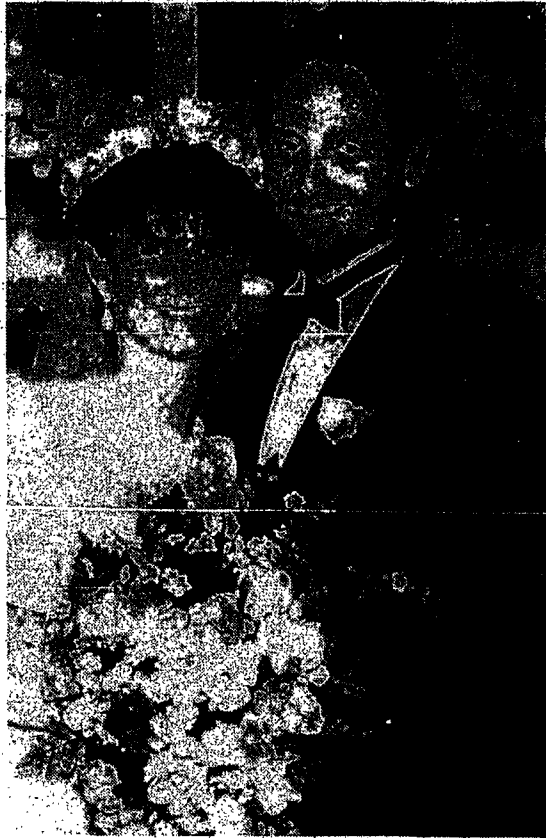

She chose a fingertip veil of white satin leaves with cascading pearls and white tulle net.

Jodi Triche was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rebecca Power, Amy Power, Tina Serpas, Jelinda Barnes and Ursula Oustalet.

Melissa LaFontaine was junior bridesmaid. Jennifer Edgecombe was flower girl. Kyle Sick was ring bearer.

The bridesmaids wore two-piece ankle-length gowns of satin faille each with portrait neckline accented with bows, and a peplum bodice over fitted skirt. Each gown was a different color—coral, turquoise, navy, fuschia, emerald green, purple and lapis blue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edgecombe

The flower girl wore a satin faille ankle-length gown of dusty rose with a sweetheart neckline accented with a tie-back bow.

Brad Skelton was best man. Ushers were Lodge Ladner and Ricky Noto. Groomsmen were Bobby Winchester, Brent Anderson, Patrick Cuevas, Wayne Karl and Gary Karl.

The mother of the bride wore a two-piece ensemble of raspberry silk brocade with a yoke sheathed with embroidered schiffli lace. The mother of the groom wore a two-piece green suit of satin faille with a portrait neckline accented with a collar of wide, embroidered candlelight lace.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Hancock County Civic Center.

After a honeymoon in Ixtapa, Mexico, the couple is making their home in Orange, Texas.

PRE-NUPTIAL PARTIES

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Reef Restaurant.

Other parties included a miscellaneous shower hosted by the bridesmaids at the Power home; a miscellaneous shower hosted by Georgia Anne and Jennifer Horne at their summer home on Favre Street in Waveland; a bar and lingerie shower hosted by the groomsmen at the Jaycee Hall; and a bridal luncheon hosted by Mrs. Kathleen Sick at Waveland Resort Inn.

Santa Cruz- Judlin

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Daniel Judlin III of New Orleans announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Susan Judlin, to Edgar Woods Santa Cruz III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Woods Santa Cruz Jr. of Bay St. Louis. The wedding will be solemnized in New Orleans in late July at the Church of the Immaculate Conception with the Reverend J. Thomas Donnelly and Deacon Gilbert R. Schmidt officiating. A reception will follow at the Pontchartrain Hotel.

Miss Judlin, whose mother is the former Miss Marylyn Claire Mora, was graduated from St. Mary's Dominican High School and received a bachelor of science degree, magna cum laude, from Louisiana State University, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She also received a juris doctorate, cum laude, from Tulane University School of Law and is associated with the New Orleans law firm of Milling, Benson, Woodward, Hillyer, Pierson and Miller.

She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Daniel Judlin Jr. of New Orleans and the late Mr. and Mrs. William John Mora Jr.

Mr. Santa Cruz, whose mother is the former Miss Grace Marie Puls of Hammond, La., was graduated from St. Stanislaus High School and received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Southern Mississippi, where he was a member of Kappa Alpha Order. He also received a master's degree in business administration from the University of Southern Mississippi.

He is also a graduate of the Southern Methodist University Graduate School of Banking in Dallas, Texas. He is employed by First National Bank of Commerce in New Orleans.

He is a grandson of Mrs. David Wiseman Smallwood and Dr. Edgar Woods Santa Cruz of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Elmer Earl Puls of Hammond and the late Dr. Puls.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside in New Orleans.

Mary Susan Judlin

Shiyou- Bernos

The forthcoming marriage of Dawn Marie Bernos to Adam James Shiyou is announced by her parents, William J. Bernos of Waveland and Ms. Laura D. Bernos of Bay St. Louis. Mr. Shiyou is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald H. Shiyou of Bay St. Louis.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Pass Christian High School and Jefferson Davis Community College.

The prospective groom attended Hancock High School and is employed with Du Pont Inc.

Wedding vows will be exchanged June 20 in a 2 p.m. ceremony at Lutheran Church of the Pines, with a reception following at the Disabled American Veterans Hall on Union Street in Bay St. Louis. Relatives and friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan "Corky" Hoda

Hoda-Hosch

The groom's parents' home on the Jourdan River was the setting for the April 26 wedding of Tammy Lynn Hosch and Nathan E. "Corky" Hoda. Judge Lee Klein officiated the evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scoggins of Lufkin, Texas. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan R. Hoda of Kiln.

Given in marriage by her eight-year-old son, Terry L. Bobbitt Jr., the bride wore a Southern-style white satin and lace, tea-length, off-the-shoulder dress with lace and pearl shawl and white lace gloves. She chose a white satin hat, adorned with mauve roses and ribbon, with veil and lace trim in back.

Her bridal bouquet was made of white and mauve satin roses, accented with pearls, lace and mauve ribbon.

Jeanne George was the bride's attendant. Danielle Hamby was flower girl. Stephan Hoda was ring bearer.

Barry Hoda was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the groom's parents' home. The couple is making their home in Kiln.

Bostick named LPN of Year

Geraldine Bostick was recently honored by Slidell Memorial Hospital as Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN) of the Year for her outstanding work with the hospital's Home Health program.

After rearing her children, Bostick returned to school at the age of 43. She received her nursing degree in 1980 from Pearl River Community College.

Several years ago, she seriously injured her back while lifting a patient. She thought she would have to give up nursing, but with much hard work and determination, she returned to her career.

House receives Fellowship Award

Dr. Fahey A. House was recently presented with the Fellowship Award by the Academy of General Dentistry at a ceremony in Orlando, Fla., honoring 500 dentists from across the country.

House is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George diBenedetto of Bay St. Louis. A Bay St. Louis native, she graduated from St. Joseph's Academy. She earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Mississippi and her dentistry from the Medical College at Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond.

She and her husband, Douglas, have a three-year-old son, Michael.

She has been practicing family dentistry for 10 years. Prior to becoming a dentist, she was a junior high school teacher and a medical technologist in Fairfax, Va.

Teen Board returns from NY tour

The Princess Shoppe Teen Board recently returned from its annual five-day tour of New York City. Group conductors were Jane Ann and Princess Fahey.

The girls stayed in the heart of the Theatre District, attended four top plays and met many of the actors and actresses.

Some of the other points of interest that were visited were Fifth Avenue, The Diamond District, Radio City Music Hall and Rockefeller Plaza, The Metropolitan Museum of Art, Carnegie Hall, The Cathedral of St. John the Divine, China Town, The Garment District, Battery Park, Empire State Building, South Street Seaport, The Plaza Hotel and Himsley Place, Wall Street and Central Park. An all-day bus tour gave the group an educational and historical background of the city.

They dined at such famous restaurants as Tavern on the Green, The Palm Court at The Plaza Hotel, Planet Hollywood and sampled cuisine from the Deli's and the famous street vendors.

The Princess Shoppe is accepting applications until June 20 for high school girls with good academic standing in grades 10-12. An application may be picked up at the Princess Shoppe in Bay St. Louis. Call for details, 467-9338.

Among Princess Shoppe Teen Board members enjoying dinner at Tavern on the Green Restaurant are Whitney Eastman, Diana Markel, Margaret Welz, Danielle Gobert, Amber Turfitt, Annie Boelte, Leah Boelte and Letty Boelte.

AARP names Lee Sauls as state media specialist

Mary Dillard, state director of the American Association of Retired Persons, announced recently the appointment of Lee J. Sauls as Mississippi media specialist.

Lee J. Sauls

Sauls will serve a two-year term. She will provide public relations support to AARP's communication activities within the state by assisting the state chapters/units in establishing and supporting public relations committees.

She will arrange speaking engagements for state AARP leaders to civic groups, community organizations, professional societies, youth groups and others to promote awareness of AARP.

Sauls, a Jourdan River Shores resident, is the wife of Ed Sauls and the mother of three children and three stepchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Sauls also have 22 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

She is currently president of American Legion Auxiliary Unit 77. A member of Annunciation Catholic Church in Kiln, she has served as publicity chairman in several clubs and is past secretary of Hancock Ladies Club, past president of Jeb Stewart VFW Auxiliary and the Ladies Altar Society, and a past officer in several other civic and community organizations.

Sauls worked for The Plainsman, Citizen Watchman and Baker Observer in Louisiana for several years where she wrote articles, set type, did advertisement and other duties required of an employee at a small newspaper.

Those interested in having an AARP speaker for a group may call Sauls at 255-4219.

'Buz' Olsen to lead North Bay PTO

The Parent-Teacher Organization at North Bay Elementary recently elected officers for the 1992-93 school year.

"Buz" Olsen has been selected to serve as president. Paula Olsen is the new vice president with Mary Jane Marsh, secretary; Linda Monks, treasurer; and Elizabeth Kimmel, parliamentarian.

They said they are looking forward to working with the students, parents, teachers and community in activities planned to benefit the school.

North Bay's PTO is an independent organization that strives to provide extra activities for the families associated with the school, provide additional art supplies for the students' use and promote educational activities for the parents.

Parents of students interested in assisting the officers for the 1992-93 school year may call the school at 467-4757.

FREEDOM WILL PREVAIL AS LONG AS OUR FLAG CAN FLY

When looking upward to the sky
We still can see our banner fly.
And fill us all with confidence,
Because of what it represents:
The freedom which we have enjoyed,
That no aggressor has destroyed.
It signifies our sacrifice
And willingness to pay the price,
That all throughout our history
Combined to keep our nation free.
Since laws of God have set the tone
Of those adapted for our own,
Through faith our flag has come to be
The symbol of our liberty;
So let's resolve to take a stand,
And keep it waving in our land.

the flag stands for

BAY ST. LOUIS, NO. 249

TOPS MS 249 Bay St. Louis met June 3 at the Hancock Medical Center. Twelve members and two guests were present.

A discussion took place on what to do if you are feeling deprived of your favorite food.

Calories as well as fat content were listed on a print-out that was given to each person.

Marijane was the top loser of the week with a 5 1/4 -pound loss. Tops 245 meets every Wednesday at Hancock Medical Center with weigh-ins between 5 and 5:30 p.m. followed by the meeting. For information call Marijane at 255-1341 or Pat at 255-7202.

VFW Auxiliary 5931

The Ladies Auxiliary Veterans of Foreign Wars 5931, Pass Christian, held an awards dinner Sunday, June 7 at the Post on East Scenic Drive.

Certificates were presented by president Liz Callahan to members who helped her during her term. Presentation of VFW pins were made to members who held membership for 35, 30, 25 and 20 years. Pins were presented by Norma Cantrell.

The auxiliary year books, awards and certificates were on display.

Some 66 members and their guests were in attendance, and all enjoyed the buffet, desserts, tea and coffee.

Fitness Trail dedication

Members of the Diamond-head Community Association and Diamond-head Performing Arts Society co-sponsored the dedication of a new fitness trail last Saturday. American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 139, sponsored its regular monthly sing-along for the residents of Hotel Reed Nursing Center Thursday, June 4. The event was co-hosted by Roslyn Weathers and Oris Planchard.

Lena Mae Oustalet played piano, and Roslyn Weathers led the singing of the gospel, hymns and "oldies-but-goodies" song, which the residents enjoyed very much. Pat Turnipseed helped serve the refreshments, and the dining room echoed with sounds of happy people.

Unit 139 held its regular monthly meeting Monday, June 8, at the Legion home.

President Janet Aime opened the meeting. Chaplain Ursula Favre read the opening prayers, and a moment of silent prayer was requested for deceased and ailing members. Color-bearers Roslyn Weathers and Hazel Wohlschlegel advanced the colors, and the members recited the Pledge of Allegiance and the Preamble.

The regular order of business was temporarily suspended so that the officers could be elected.

The new slate of officers for 1992-1993 are: Susan Piazza, president; Mattie North, first vice president; Shirley Clemons, second vice president; Jeannette Ladner, secretary; Bobbye Tomlinson, treasurer; Ursula Favre, chaplain; Beatrice Ladner, historian; Roslyn Weathers and Hazel Wohlschlegel, color-bearers; Evelyn Burns, sergeant-at-arms; Anna Brehm, Judy Gavney and Margaret Prevou, executive committee.

President Aime thanked the many members for their support during her term of office, and said how satisfying it was that so many were present at the meeting. She congratulated the new officers and wished them all good luck and good health throughout the year.

The meeting then proceeded with the regular order of business. Secretary Jeannette Ladner read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were accepted as read, and treasurer Bobbye Tomlinson reported on the financial status of the Unit.

The committee chairmen then spoke of their activities during the month, and the correspondence was read and acknowledged. Other business was tabled for a later date. The president then called upon the chaplain to read the closing prayers. The color-bearers retired the colors, and the president spoke the closing words and adjourned the meeting.

Refreshments were then served.

Coast Jazz Society

The Mississippi Coast Jazz Society's will participate in the second annual International Jazz Day, called "J-Day," at a June 29 Jazz session at the Royal d'Iberville Hotel in Biloxi, 7:30 p.m.

Coast musicians will provide jazz music for dancing and listening. There is no admission fee for members, and guests are welcome at $3. Memberships are available at the door.

Last year, the first annual J-Day succeeded in raising the awareness of jazz worldwide. More than 300 jazz clubs in the U.S., England, Germany, Russia, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, and Argentina marked the day with festivals and jazz sessions honoring both the music and the musicians who produce jazz.

Medical Assistants

Coast Counties Medical Assistants will meet at Robby's Restaurant on Hwy. 49 in Gulfport Thursday, June 18 at 6 p.m.

Kelli Manning, RD, with health promotions at Memorial Hospital, Gulfport, will give a program on diet control.

For dinner reservations and/or information, call Quin Bloom at 865-7299 or Carolyn Harden, 863-7144 no later than Monday, June 15.

WAVELAND

TOPS MS 233 Waveland met Tuesday, June 9 at the Waveland Public Library. Theresa was the week's best loser. She lost four pounds.

The new contest began and will end July 14. TOPS #MS233 meets every Tuesday at the Waveland Public Library. Weigh-ins are from 5:30-6 p.m. with the meeting immediately following.

Anyone interested in losing weight sensibly and maintaining that weight loss is invited to visit one of the meetings. Call Charlotte at 467-5790 for information.

Gulf Coast Chapter Certified Public Accountants

Gulf Coast Chapter of Mississippi Society of CPAs will meet June 22 at the Great Southern Club, Gulfport. Jim Henderson of University of Southern Mississippi will present a program on Ethics.

The four-hour program will begin at 1:30 p.m. and will qualify for Continuing Professional Education. For further information, contact Lori S. Mozingo, secretary, at 863-0411.

Girls learn about government in state of 'Magnolia' this week

More than 380 high school girls will gather at the University of Southern Mississippi June 14-19 to form the fictitious state of "Magnolia."

The delegates, girls about to enter their senior year in high school, were nominated by American Legion auxiliaries throughout the state to participate in the 45th annual Mississippi Girls State session, hosted by USM for the sixth year.

Auxiliaries of American Legion Post 139, Bay St. Louis, Post 77, Waveland, and Post 58, Standard, have nominated 17 local women to participate as representatives of Hancock County.

Jeanette Ghetty, state session director, stated, the program's primary goal is to teach politics. The girls make nominations, hold campaign rallies, organize political platforms and elect state and local officials.

Ghetty, Mississippi's candidate for National American Legion Auxiliary president, served as Girls Nation director last year.

Formerly held at Hinds Community College in Raymond, the state program was moved to USM in 1987 because of a need for expanded facilities to handle an increasing number of participants.

The delegates will hold mock elections for state and local offices such as governor, secretary of state, auditor, attorney general, senators and representatives for the 12 cities and five counties of "Magnolia."

Two girls selected as Girls Nation senators will travel to Washington, D.C.'s Marymount College in July for the national program, and a second annual award of $500 will be presented to the "Outstanding Girls State Citizen."

Highlights of the week-long session at USM will include addresses by state and local officials, including Secretary of State Dick Molpus, Attorney General Mike Moore and Speaker of the House Tim Ford.

"Project Aware" will feature state prison inmates who relate individual stories of how they became involved in crime. Other activities will include a talent show, a glee club event, publication of the "Alagista," the official Girls State newspaper, and trips to Hattiesburg City Hall and governmental offices in Jackson by the top eight "Magnolia" officials.

The session is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary with assistance from the USM College of International and Continuing Education.

On December 8, 1991 the Soviet republics of Russia, the Ukraine and Byelorussia signed an accord creating the Commonwealth of Independent States. The document's first paragraph said, in part, "That the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, as a subject of international law and geopolitical reality, is ceasing its existence."

During the following year, most other Soviet republics would sign the accord and millions of people would be unshackled from the communist system.

The world would never be the same again.

Meanwhile, in Hancock County...

The issue of Dockside Gambling remained unsettled after being approved in a close vote in December, 1990.

Gambling's opponents and proponents battled over regulations, sites and number of casinos.

The county's first license was issued to Bay Cove Marina (Casino Magic Corporation), which is scheduled to open Labor Day, 1992.

The Mississippi Army National Guard 1355th Supply and Service Company of Bay St. Louis and Ocean Springs participated in Operation Desert Shield/Storm and returned home to a hero's welcome.

The Sea Coast Echo is there.

Razzmatazz Band on tap for Kiln Library program on Tuesday

A parade of musical instruments made from recyclables and a special program by author Steve Shepard will highlight this week's activities during the Hancock County Library System's summer reading program, "Spout About Books." No registration is required for these programs.

Participants in the program at the Kiln Library will meet Tuesday, June 16 at 1:30 p.m. to receive hands-on induction into the joys of musical creativity by crafting instruments from recyclables. They will then participate in the Razzmatazz Recycled Ragtime Band and Parade.

The program will be facilitated by Cherie Schadler, who opened the program with face painting. She is a native of New Orleans who moved to Pass Christian five years ago. She is also a singer/songwriter who produced a Nashville television show, "Nashville Revue," and toured across the country with the show.

Steve Shepard, author of the book, Elvis Hornbill, International Business Bird, will present a special program at the City-County Public Library in Bay St. Louis on Wednesday, June 17 at 10 a.m.

Participants from the Waveland Library will be attending this program in place of an activity on Thursday, June 18.

Shepard, a resident of Gaither, is primarily an artist, with a BFA degree from the University of South Alabama. In 1987, he accompanied his wife, Jeanne, when she received a Fulbright scholarship to teach at the University of Ouagadougou, in Burkina Faso, West Africa. While there, they were given an orphaned hornbill to raise. The bird's real-life story was the inspiration for Shepard's book.

Elvis Hornbill, International Business Bird is about a father-son battle over career choices. The father recognizes his son's talent for singing, names him Elvis after you-know-who and dreams of him growing up to be a rock-and-roll star. But Elvis wants to study economics and accounting.

This year's program features two segments—the reading incentive segment and the summer activities segment. The reading incentive segment is open to all children and young adults, from pre-school to eighth grade. Children who have not yet learned to read may participate by having a parent read to them.

To register, just visit any Hancock County Library branch, sign up, and then visit a branch at least six times and check out at least six books during the program, which ends July 8.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724, Karen Peoples, Waveland Library, 467-9240, or Myra Haynes, City-County Library, 467-5282.

Highest average

The Father Costello award for the highest academic average was awarded to Tommy Rutherford, left, and Ellen Felder at a recent eighth grade program at St. Clare School. Father Noel Fannon, pastor, presented the awards.

USM toy library upgrades computers

A toy library for disabled children at the University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Park campus plans to upgrade its computer technology with the aid of more than $12,000 in grants received during the past year.

A $7,110 grant by the Mississippi Power Foundation last fall and a more recent $5,000 grant from Ronald McDonald's Children's Charities will help USM-Gulf Coast's Toys to Technology program add computer equipment, according to Dr. Sara Jackson of Bay St. Louis.

The toy library opened in November of 1990 as the only facility of its kind between Houston, Texas, and Atlanta, Ga. Lia Mandracchia serves as library coordinator.

Jackson, an assistant professor of special education at USM-Gulf Coast who was instrumental in founding the library, said the facility houses a large collection of specially designed toys for handicapped children from birth to age 6 in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties. The toys may be checked out free of charge for use at home.

SSC Pepsi Students of Year

Epilepsy Foundation offers free summer camp

The Epilepsy Foundation will sponsor its annual summer camp for children in Mississippi with epilepsy. The camp is free of charge.

This year's activity is the week of July 19-23 at the Warren Hood Boy Scout Reservation in Copiah County. It is open to boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 18 who have a diagnosed seizure condition. Each child must be physician approved to attend.

The camp is co-sponsored by the Andrew Jackson Council of the Boy Scouts of America and the University Medical Center Department of Pediatric Neurology. Full physician coverage will be provided.

Parents of guardians interested in the camp for their child should contact the Foundation by July 1. The Foundation is located at 4785 McWillie Dr., Suite 245, Jackson, MS 39206; (800) 368-0281 or (601) 362-2761.
